

Cabinet News and Views

Informed analysis for the financial services industry

In This Issue ...

While March Madness, in the form of the NCAA men's and women's basketball tournaments, and the Academy Awards left us with the week's "did you see that?" moments, the SEC's proposed climate-related rule remained a top-of-mind topic in the financial services industry. Add to that an important new pronouncement from the FDIC, covered in this week's issue as a "Take Five" commentary item by our Global Litigation colleagues Jason Halper, Sara Bussiere and Timbre Shriver, and you can see why we think there will be continued focus and debate on climate in the weeks and months to come.

Unfortunately, the situation in Ukraine remains dire, and so we are revisiting sanctions and other related developments this week. In addition, lost in the news shuffle a bit was important FDIC guidance on bank mergers. That's certainly worth a read as well.

As always, we welcome your comments and questions. Just write to us here.

Daniel Meade & Michael Sholem

Co-Editors, Cabinet News and Views
