January 28, 2022 | Issue No. 160

Join best-selling author Michael Lewis and Diversity in Fund Finance speaker Sekou Kaalund, Chase's Head of Consumer Banking for the Northeast Division and Head of Advancing Black Pathways, for fireside chats at the 11th Annual Global Fund Finance Symposium.

While attendance capacity has been reached for the event, if you are interested in being placed on a waitlist, please contact info@fundfinanceassociation.com.

About the speakers:

Financial journalist and The New York Times best-selling author Michael Lewis has published 16 books, covering a range of subjects from politics to Wall Street. Two of his popular releases include The Big Short and Boomerang, both narratives set in the global financial crisis, and his other highly rated works include Moneyball, Flash Boys and Liar's Poker. In Lewis's most recent publication, The Premonition: A Pandemic Story, you'll follow the stories of a band of medical visionaries pitted against the White House administration in the face of the outbreak of COVID-19.

Recognized by Ebony magazine in its 2020 Power 100 list, Sekou Kaalund has over two decades of Wall Street experience and currently serves as head of Consumer Banking for the Northeast Division at Chase. In recognition of his commitment to impact and experience building businesses, Sekou was tapped to launch Advancing Black Pathways, the first global corporate initiative to leverage a data-driven strategic framework to develop scalable programs to reduce the racial wealth gap. The initiative has been hugely successful, leading to a historic five-year, firm-wide $30B commitment to advance racial equity.
