Cadwalader's Samantha Hutchinson Named Among The Drawdown's 2022 'Most Influential Fund Finance Experts'

September 16, 2022 | Issue No. 192

Cadwalader's Samantha Hutchinson has been recognized among The Drawdown's 2022 list of the "most influential fund finance experts," which showcases the individuals who have shaped the market and whose achievements last year "have had a major influence on the entire fund finance sphere."

In Sam's published profile, The Drawdown writes that her fund finance career is "littered with firsts, evidencing her creative approach, and cementing her position as a trailblazer within the space." More specifically, it references examples of her innovative financing structures that are "now staple products in the European market," including a note structure that employs securitization technology. The publication also comments on her pivotal role in championing – and improving – diversity and inclusion within the space.

Congrats to Sam and all the deserving honorees!
